It has a great mix of long and short holes, with course designer Danie Obermeyer's signature "rivet faced" bunkers providing punishment for the wayward shot!

BIRDING & NATURE

BIRDING & NATURE

Birding in The Langeberg

The Cape Central Valley is home to the Langeberg municipal region and covers an area of 4,518 square kilometres (1,744 sq mi) in the Breede River Valley and the west end of the Little Karoo.

Providing an unparalleled diverse habitat for birds, the life-giving Breede River runs through the valley, surrounded by the majestic Langeberg and Riviersonderend mountains with the Koega bordering the north.

The huge number of endemic species found in the Western Cape and the Langeberg region, in particular, is astounding.

Endemism refers to species that are restricted to a certain region and that can be found nowhere else in the world. Southern Africa is fortunate to have high levels of endemism in all forms of life, and South Africa is the most biologically megadiverse country in Africa.

Amazingly, at least 56 of Southern Africa's 94 endemic bird species and 22 of the 61 near-endemic species are found in the Langeberg region. With these 78 species alone, this relatively small region boasts more endemic birds than most countries have to offer.

Several exciting and often endemic bird species are found in the Cape Floral Kingdom habitat type and can be tracked down relatively easily in several different localities spread throughout the Langeberg region.

Most of these birding destinations are readily accessible and often feature dramatic Fynbos and mountain landscapes. Top destinations for these "fynbos specials" include the Dassieshoek Nature Reserve at Robertson, applicable habitats in the Rooiberg conservancy, the Vrolijkheid Nature Reserve near McGregor, the Fish Eagle hiking trail at Van Loveren Family Vineyards, the Montagu Mountain Reserve, and several privately owned properties throughout the region. Entrance to these reserves is often free or available at a minimal cost.

Vrolijkheid Nature Reserve

Just 15km south of Robertson, on the road to McGregor, lies Vrolijkheid Nature Reserve—a rugged haven of Karoo landscapes, hiking trails, and breathtaking biodiversity. In spring, the reserve bursts into colour as bright orange botterblom daisies scatter across the terrain, living up to its name—'happiness'.

Sheilam Cactus and Succulent Nursery

Situated in the Klaasvoogds Valley and boasting approximately 2000 species of plants, the nursery is recognised by authorities as one of the finest collections of specimen plants. Discover plants such as The Old Man of Peru, Mother-in-Law's-Chair, Horses' Teeth, Elephant Feet, Klipplante (stone plants), Bushman's Grape and more.

LUXURY SAFARI

LUXURY SAFARI

Mont Eco Private Game Reserve offers a unique safari experience just 3 and a half hours from Cape Town – no need to fly up to the Kruger when the Big 5 is only a drive away!

Mont Eco Private Game Reserve
